David Kalteux defends employers in high-stakes employment litigation and advises them on proactive strategies to reduce legal risk.

David Kalteux is a dedicated advocate for employers, focusing his practice on high-stakes employment litigation and proactive legal strategies to minimize risk and ensure compliance. Throughout his career, David has exclusively represented employers, earning a reputation as a versatile and strategic legal partner providing effective solutions on a wide range of issues.

David represents clients ranging from small family-owned businesses to Fortune 100 companies across a broad spectrum of employment disputes, including, but not limited to:

- » Wage and hour matters, including complex class and collective actions
- » Claims of wrongful termination, discrimination, harassment, and retaliation
- » Disability accommodation and medical leave violations
- » Worker misclassification (independent contractor vs. employee; exempt vs. non-exempt)
- » Breach of employment contracts and restrictive covenant enforcement
- » Trade secret misappropriation and related business litigation
- » Disability access compliance under Title III
- » Employment-related Fair Credit Reporting Act claims

A member of the firm's Wage/Hour practice group, David defends employers in wage disputes under the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA) and state laws, including large-scale collective and class actions. His commercial litigation experience further strengthens his ability to represent employers in business-to-business disputes, particularly those involving contract breaches and the enforcement of non-compete and non-solicitation agreements.

Beyond litigation, David devotes a substantial part of his practice to
